From Our Pastor...

ENTRANCE INTO THE KINGDOM

As did John the Baptist, Jesus began his public ministry by saying, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven has come near" (or "is at hand"). To live within God's glorious and eternal reign is to respond to this gift in the here-and-now with complete trust (faith) and adaptability. The call to repent is a realization that a commitment to change is necessary. Awareness of the presence of the kingdom of heaven seems highly unlikely for those who would be or are unwilling or unable to make changes in their world-view, lifestyle and commitment to God's possibilities and promises.

The call to repent is a challenge to be moved away, by the power of God's Spirit, from those idolatries that attempt to convince us that we are going in the "right" direction and to be placed firmly in the hands of a God who chooses for us, in the life of Jesus, salvation and life eternal begun in the present. In other words, Jesus is saying, "See, the kingdom of heaven is not something you have to wait around for, nor is it something to be gained only later by acquiring a special skill set or by attaining a level of religious perfection. It's here for the taking. With eyes of faith, allow yourselves to be moved by God's grace to see and receive the gift, and believe. Go ahead, and enter now."

On several occasions in Matthew's Gospel, Jesus speaks against those understandings or actions that may and can prove as hindrances for entrance into the kingdom of heaven. Near the beginning of Jesus' Sermon on the Mount, he indicates that "unless your righteousness exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven" (MT 5:20). How are we to perceive this warning? Does it suggest that the kingdom of heaven demands high standards for entrance, possibly indicating that a particular set of values and actions are more worthy than others, and are rewarded as such? Or is Jesus' statement intended to provoke his followers into an understanding of righteousness and the kingdom of heaven apart from that ascribed by the scribes and Pharisees, which may be suggestive of a system that rewards "certain" works that elevate the doer into an arena of divine favor and castigates those who "fail" at such works? Is the higher righteousness that Jesus calls for another "work" imposed upon us or is it simply a way of seeing and believing God's presence at work in our lives?

Later in Matthew's Gospel, Jesus again speaks to that which may hinder or possibly prevent entrance into the kingdom of heaven, as he responds to the sadly ridiculous question of "Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven" (MT 18:1). (Seems like those who seek righteousness by their works are always looking for an angle that will lift them to a higher level than others.) Jesus has this to say: "Amen, I tell you, unless you change and become like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven."

Added to this, Jesus speaks favorably to the humility evidenced by child-like awareness, receptivity and trust. Is the change that Jesus calls for an active shift of strategy and implementation that focuses upon what might work to gain access to the kingdom, or is Jesus calling us away from those learned behaviors that seek to manipulate power, influence and control as regards to our fate or destiny? Entrance into the kingdom of heaven may have less to do with human striving than with a child's view of being cared for absolutely.

Still later in Matthew's Gospel, Jesus again is confronted by a rich person who seeks the way to "get" eternal life- "What good deed must I do?" (MT 19:16). The absurdity of such questions lingers even as Jesus points us away from absolute trust in our "good works" to gain access to God's favor. "Good works" will flow from reception of God's favor (grace) but are not the means to "get" God's favor. And so Jesus warns, "Amen, I tell you, it will be hard for a rich person to enter the kingdom of heaven. Again I tell you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for someone who is rich to enter the kingdom of God" (MT 19:23-24). Wealth may get us things by worldly standards, but it serves as a hindrance in becoming able to see and experience the favor God lays before us as gift.

Entrance into the kingdom of heaven, by Jesus' statements, may seem difficult if not impossible, but only as we maintain an adherence to our own motivations, desires, and actions as the means necessary for such entrance. We fail not by a lack of effort or production, but simply by not trusting in the possibility of God who provides for us the kingdom as a gift of love. Believe, that you may see!

Blessings,
Pr. John

Soles 4 Souls At FELC

Do you have new or gently worn shoes that are just taking up space in your closet? Please prayerfully consider donating them to Soles4Souls. Soles4Souls is a non-profit social enterprise based in Nashville, TN. Their mission is to create sustainable jobs and relief through the distribution of shoes and clothing around the world.

The Adult Sunday School is overseeing the Soles4Souls project at FELC. "Your new and gently-worn shoes help individuals start and sustain small businesses to lift themselves out of poverty. Donated shoes are a viable resource to help entrepreneurs provide crucial necessities for their families. "Ever thought about the POWER of a pair of shoes? Since Soles4Souls began in 2006, we've distributed over 35 million pairs of shoes in 127 countries. But EVERY SINGLE ONE of those pairs makes a difference in people's lives. "

"Every day children are prevented from attending school, adults are unable to work. Walking becomes unbearable. A new pair of shoes provides relief in many developing nations around the globe, in times of disaster, and helps bridge the economic gap in the United States and Canada."

"Soles4Souls was founded as a disaster relief organization after philanthropists and shoe executives provided footwear to those most impacted by The Indian Ocean tsunami in 2004 and Hurricane Katrina in 2005. We continue to act as second wave responders providing footwear and clothing to those in need during times of disaster.

Our micro-enterprise model provides individuals the ability to start small businesses by providing a steady supply of high-quality, low-cost product; a powerful and sustainable way for people to lift themselves and their families out of poverty.

In many developing nations, walking is the primary mode of transportation. Every day millions are exposed to unsanitary conditions that lead to diseases. These diseases may lead to sickness, even death. They also keep children out of school leaving them without an education and continuing the cycle of poverty. With your help, we can provide a life-changing solution: a good pair of shoes.

Americans throw away more than 70 pounds of textiles per person per year. The EPA estimates only 15% is donated or recycled. Since 2006 we've kept 51 million pounds of shoes and clothing out of landfills and instead created opportunities for people in need around the globe."

So... clean out those closets of all those shoes that you no longer wear, even single shoes are accepted! Place them in the box located in the hallway outside the sanctuary, across from the ramp door.

Again, please prayerfully consider donating your old, gently used shoes.
